The Daily Sentinel.

VOL. II. RALEIGH, N. C., MONDAY, MAY 20, 1867. NO. 240.

THE SENTINEL.

WM E. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

Mr. Greely has been very coarsely assailed by the New York Evening Post (Bryant) and New York Commercial Advertiser (Weed,) for his liberal course in reference to Mr. Davis. The Tribune fights back with the vigor of a man who has an approving conscience and a strong cause. We can almost hear some of the licks in the following:

PHARISEES HOWLING.

The release of Mr. Davis affords to some of our contemporaries a pretext for malignant vituperation. The editor of this journal is howled at with a vindictiveness which is comforting so far as it shows that the tongues of certain of our friends have not yet cleaved to the roofs of their mouths.—Let that pass as the idle wind which we heed not. One or two observations, however, may be ventured in reference to a matter which seems to excite more than ordinary interest.

Jefferson Davis was taken prisoner two years since. He was arrested as an assassin—and for his arrest the government paid the sum of one hundred thousand dollars. The President claimed to know in offering this reward that Mr. Davis was the accomplice of Wilkes Booth. He was thrown into a dungeon and manacled, and held in harassing durance. As an assassin, especially as the assassin of Mr. Lincoln, this rigor and vigilance did not seem unnecessary, and we were content. With all the proofs the administration claimed to have, was it not wise, nay, was it not due to the memory of the martyred dead, that speedy justice should be visited upon the great offender? Certainly, if Jefferson Davis was concerned in the assassination of Mr. Lincoln, he was the chief assassin. The wretch who was shot, the four wretches who were so swiftly hanged one midsummer's day, were the mere instruments in the rear of the great criminal. This belief induced Mr. Davis' arrest, and the payment of an enormous reward. What came of the arrest? With evidence of guilt in the possession of Mr. Stanton—with a hundred generals only too happy to be assigned to court-martial duty—with the courts open, able lawyers and district-attorneys duly commissioned, the great criminal was permitted to remain in prison, and not a word was said of justice. For two years this has continued, and now, at the end of two years, the Government permits him, an unpunished assassin, to be taken from prison and released on bail. If this is right now, when did it become right? If, after all, the Government has no evidence showing the complicity of Davis and Booth, why was not the charge withdrawn?

Well, it was as a traitor, and not as an assassin, that Mr. Davis was held, and as such he should have been kept in jail. But why keep him in jail? Treason is a crime, and a crime, according to Mr. Johnson, that should be punished. There is a lawful way of punishing men in this country. To keep a man in prison without trial is a violation of law, not obedience to it. Mr. Davis may have committed many crimes—so many indeed that, according to the howling Pharisee, "it is a disgrace and reproach to our country that he should ever be permitted to desecrate with his traitor foot-prints the soil of a free State." But how do we know that he committed crimes? There is but one way of knowing it—the verdict of twelve trusty men. Because Mr. Davis is a criminal, must we also be criminal? Because he is known to have committed treason, must we also commit what is certainly moral treason to the Constitution? If it is right to take Jefferson Davis, citizen, and imprison him two years without judge or jury, why not citizen Thurlow Weed, or citizen William Cullen Bryant? But it is popularly believed that Mr. Davis is a traitor, and that, as a traitor, he should long ago have been hanged. Well, it is also popularly believed that if Mr. Thurlow Weed had his deserts he would long ago have been in Sing Sing. We have no legal knowledge of the fact, Mr. Weed has never been arrested nor tried; nor has even an indictment been found. He is at liberty, and so long as he is not legally accused we shall insist that he remain at liberty, and, if necessary, we shall find twenty bondsmen who will answer for his security until tried.—The principle is the same, whether it applies to Davis or Weed, or citizen Dermot arrested for assault and battery. The law has no prejudices—the Constitution no "popular" punishments.

Certain citizens testify their appreciation of the principle so conspicuously violated in the case of Mr. Davis by becoming his bondsmen. Listen to the Pharisees howling. It is popular to howl at Mr. Davis, and hence all this loudly echoing indignation. What is justice? What is law?—What is the Constitution? What are the honor and dignity of this nation? Mr. Davis is a traitor and should be hanged! Well, Johnson is a patriot, and why did he not hang him? The Pharisees who howl over Davis, huzza for Johnson. So long as Davis was a fact, we opposed him. The rebellion he led, the slave system he cherished, the disunion he preached, we have warred upon. We war upon them now, and shall continue to do so until this land is a land of universal freedom and impartial suffrage.—But Jefferson Davis is no longer a fact. He no longer represents armed treason. He is our victim, our prisoner, the creature of the laws, and one in whose person the laws have for two years been dishonored. Against that injustice we have protested, as we hope to protest against injustice in any form, no matter how lofty or lowly the victim. This we do because we believe it to be right.—The Pharisees may howl notwithstanding. We have heard them many and many a time before.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.—Mr. B. F. Moore, Jr., a resident of this county, was fired upon and painfully though not seriously wounded last Saturday morning while riding to town, by some person secreted in the woods near the road side. The neighbors immediately took the matter in hand and searched the woods in the neighborhood, but to no purpose. Mr. Moore is determined such a high handed outrage shall not go unpunished, and offers a reward of $500 for the apprehension of the would-be murderer.—Meridian (Miss) Gazette.

The First National Bank of New Orleans has been taken possession of by the military authorities, and a receiver will probably be appointed. Thomas P. May, a millionaire of that city, has signed over all his property to the government to cover obligations incurred by him in his transactions with the Sub-Treasury.

MADE BY THE GREAT ASTROLOGIST,

Madame H. A. PERRIGO.

She reveals secrets no mortal ever knew. She restores to happiness those who, from doleful events, catastrophes, crosses in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money, &c., have become despondent. She brings together those long separated, gives information concerning absent friends or lovers, restores lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, causes speedy marriages and tells you the very day you will marry, gives you the name, likeness and characteristics of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers unveils the dark and hidden mysteries of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the malefic stars that overcome or predominate in the configuration—from the aspects and positions of the planets and the fixed stars in the heavens at the time of birth, she deduces the future destiny of man. Fail not to consult the greatest Astrologist on earth. It costs you but a trifle, and you may never again have so favorable an opportunity. Consultation fee, with likeness and all desired information, $1. Parties living at a distance can consult the Madame by mail with equal safety and satisfaction to themselves, as if in person. A full and explicit chart, written out, with all inquiries answered and likeness enclosed, sent by mail on receipt of price above mentioned. The strictest secrecy will be maintained, and all correspondence returned or destroyed. References of the highest order furnished those desiring them. Write plainly the day of the month and year in which you were born, enclosing a small lock of hair.

TENNESSEE.

We make no apology for the space we occupy, to-day, with extracts from a recent powerful and withering speech of the Hon. John Baxter, at Cleaveland, Tenn., in exposure of the atrocities and iniquities that have marked the reign of Brownlowism in that State. Mr. Baxter is well known to our people as a gentleman of fine abilities, and of great fearlessness and personal independence. He has frequently served in our State councils and with at one time Speaker of the House of Commons of North Carolina, but moved to Tennessee a few years prior to the war. His record throughout the struggle was that of unflinching attachment to the Union. He occupied, we may say, in sentiment, pretty much the position of B. F. Moore, Esq., of this city. Living in Brownlow's own city, having been thrown much in counsel and co-operation with him during the war, and knowing the man and his purposes thoroughly, Mr. Baxter's terrible exposure and invective tell with the more powerful effect.

Mr. Baxter has seen enough of practical Southern Radicalism, as illustrated in the course of Brownlow, to be shocked and disgusted with the enormity of its acts and the fiendishness of its design, and, like a patriot, he is engaged in canvassing the State and endeavoring to arouse the people to a sense of the danger involved in the continuance of its wicked away.

We commend the picture which he presents of the frightful condition of things in Tennessee to the serious consideration of our people. The Radical leaders in this State applaud the course of Brownlow;—they hold him up as a worthy exemplar and eulogize him as "a glorious old patriot;" their aim is to inaugurate in North Carolina precisely the same state of things that exists in Tennessee,—the same political disfranchisements, proscriptions and persecutions. If they succeed, we may bid a long farewell to peace and prosperity. Brownlow is not one whit worse than many men in our own midst.

The Charlotte Democrat still rings the changes upon the "unfortunate mistake" of Gov. Worth, who permitted himself to run against Gov. Holden in 1865. It says old prejudices influenced a set of men to start the opposition. We, perhaps, know as much about this matter as any other living person. We deny the statement utterly.—No old prejudices or old grudges influenced the parties a whit, who were active in that matter. The course of the Provisional Governor, and the determination of the people not to vote for him, were the causes, and the only causes, that led to Governor Worth's being run. Nothing but the conviction that the people would not endorse the administration of the Provisonal Governor led to the determination to start opposition. That those who brought out Gov. Worth did right, and did what was best for the State, has been abundantly proven by the result and by subsequent facts. No proposition can be more clearly established than that the defeat of Mr. Holden was a fortunate circumstance, as every man of discernment must have seen at the time. Perhaps the testimony of Senator Wilson will satisfy the Democrat. When Gov. Worth was in Washington city last, he met Senator Wilson, in the presence of a number of gentlemen, who expressed much pleasure at meeting Gov. Worth. Mr. Wilson remarked substantially, addressing himself to the Governor, "some folks made an ado because you beat Mr. Holden for Governor, but, for my own part, I was glad enough of it."

Again, the Democrat says, we abuse "Holden and his friends." We want the proof. Is it abuse, to prove the inconsistency and unworthiness of politicans by their own record? Wherein have we abused any one? Have we said anything untrue of any one? Have we made a charge that we have not sustained? Let the Democrat prove its assertions about the Sentinel and Gov. Worth, or cease its fault findings. It reminds us constantly of old aunt Gracy Sourcrout, who seemed always bent on a fuss, and would invariably quarrel with the dogs and cats for eating up the peelings. We never pick it up but we look for some sour, captious remark, as if it was trying to be uncommonly smart. The Democrat tried this once when Gen. Ruger was in command here. The General had arrested the editor of the Times at the suggestion of the Standard, and the Democrat bristled up and cut away at General Ruger very sharply. In a day or two the Democrat was on the way to Raleigh under arrest. The Democrat and the Standard then became wondrous thick, and have been so ever since.

The masked correspondents of the New York Tribune and Herald send the most awful stories of "rebel" atrocity at the Mobile riot. We have already published the account of the affair given in the Associated Press dispatches, and await, with much interest, the statements of the Mobile papers. Prima facie, which is apparently the more worthy of credit,—the responsible agent of the Press Association, or the irresponsible partisan correspondent of a Radical paper?

The Louisiana Supreme Court have decided that notes based on Confederate money should not be paid, as that money is illegal; also that notes signed before the passage of the Stamp act do not require stamps to be [illegible]

THE REGISTRATION.

Keep it before the people, that on the 3rd. Monday of July next, the registration of voters in North Carolina will begin, and that every one, entitled to vote, should be sure to register.

Let the people remember, that the opinion of the Attorney General of the United States will be published in a few days, by which the Registrars must be guided in determining who are and who are not entitled to vote under the Reconstruction Acts of Congress.

Let them remember that it is no small matter whether they register or not; that the most serious consequences may result from the neglect to register; that those who can register and vote, according to the act of Congress, are determined by the law to be loyal, and that they are fit persons to aid in the reconstruction of the State.

Let the people be sure to ascertain where the registration takes place, and let them lay aside all questions of mere feeling or the claims of other duties, which might, under other circumstances, prevent them from registering, and let them perform that duty to the State and to the country.

Let the people in all the counties at once urge upon the best qualified citizens, who are eligible to seats in the State Convention, under the law, to declare themselves candidates for the Convention, and let all the people, white and colored, concentrate only upon the most capable and the most honest and reliable for that position. If this cannot be done, without resorting to the usual electioneering methods of bringing out candidates, then let that be done. It is preferable, however, to bring out the very best men otherwise than by packed caucuses and partizan machinery.

Let the people be warned against any attempt to force men upon them, not fully committed against all attempts to make a partizan Constitution for the State of North Carolina—men who are not pledged to incorporate into the Constitution nothing that looks to the further disfranchisement of the people of the State, beyond what is required by the Congressional platform—in a word, to leave the whole question of political disfranchisement just where the Congress has placed it.

Let the people be earnestly admonished to select only North Carolinians for seats in the Convention. Let them beware of either white or black spatters—men who are only ambitious for office-sake or for party purposes. Let them select men of known high character, who are fully identified, for all time to come, with North Carolina interests, and who are earnestly devoted to the restoration of the Union.

In a word, let only such men be selected, who are known to be true men, who will give to all our people, white and black, equal justice and right, and who will provide for the moral elevation and the mutual prosperity of all classes and all conditions.

The University.—It will be remembered that a Joint Select Committee was appointed, during the last session of the Legislature, to enquire into the management and general condition of the University. That Committee consisted, if we recollect aright, of Messrs. Peebles, Davis and Foard, on the part of the House of Commons, and Messrs. Clark and Hall, on the part of the Senate.

We happen to be in a position to know that it is of the highest importance that this Committee should take prompt action in the premises. It has therefore been suggested that it shall assemble at the University, some time during the ensuing Commencement week. We hope that this suggestion will therefore be considered by the members of the Committee as a sufficient notification that such a meeting is expected and desired. We repeat that it is of prime importance that a prompt conference shall be had.

Hayward, the Martyr.—This interesting adventurer, who has occupied so much ot the attention of our people for several days past, left the city yesterday morning. As we expected, his arrest and examination on the chage of using incendiary language in his speech in the African Church on Thursday night last, has made a martyr of him, and he will get his reward, and we shall have the honor of registering him as a prominent citizen of Richmond.

We learned yesterday that he was to receive the appointment of attorney for the government in this city, under the bankrupt law, which goes into effect on the 1st of next month. We have no objection to this arrangement. We rather like Hayward, and feel satisfied that he has received a lesson from Mr. Mayo that will last him ten years if his duties keep him here that long. It is not so bad to be a martyr after all.—Richmond Examiner.

The Radical papers in Washington are furious over the cheers with which Mr. Davis' release was greeted last Monday; but we do not remember that their sense of propriety was shocked at the cheers which greeted the acquittal of a murderess in that city last year, nor at the cheers which filled the Senate chamber at many a malignant burst of fury against the South, for two years past.—Richmond Examiner.

On Tuesday evening the mass convention of the Republicans, white and black, in Washington, made its nomination for city officers; and although the negroes outnumbered the whites five to one, the latter claimed and obtained every nomination. Such is the hypocrisy of the Republican party.—Richmond Examiner.

When the Radicals had uncontrolled power in Maryland, they never dreamed of giving the negroes suffrage. As soon, however, as the Democrats obtain control of the State, they raise a terrible clamor for the rights of the freedmen. Such is the hypocrisy of the Republican party.—Examiner.

Here is an anti-liquor-law-argument of marvellous beauty and force: "Du Chaillu says that when he remonstrated with the Africans for their intemperance, they replied: 'Look at the gorilla; he drinks only water.'

SPEECH OF COL. JOHN BAXTER, OF KNOXVILLE,
At Cleveland, Tenn., on Monday, May 6.

THE INDICTMENT AND ARRAIGNMENT OF BROWNLOWISM BEFORE THE PEOPLE—A THOROUGH AND WITHERING EXPOSITION.

Fellow-Citizens:—The social and political revolution through which we have just passed imposes upon each and all of us corresponding duties and responsibilities; and among the gravest and most important of these are prudence, patriotism, and an honest purpose to do our whole duty in the exercise of our political rights. Especially is this true of us as Tennesseans; for it is here, and particularly in this division of the State, that the passions, prejudices, and malevolence engendered by the late rebellion have taken deepest hold, and are doing most to sap the foundations of society.—These evils are rapidly drifting us to absolute and positive ruin, and if not arrested will disorganize our State government, break down everything like legal protection to persons and property, dry up the fountains of industry, education and progress, and render Tennessee an unfit habitation for an upright, law-loving, and intelligent people.

The urgent necessity for prompt and vigorous action on your part will best appear from a retrospect of events for the past few years. Our State government, which had been disorganized by the rebellion, was reconstructed at a period of great public danger, under the influence of fierce passion, with strong feeling of resentment towards that portion of the people who had adhered to the rebellion, and in the presence, by the permission, and to some extent under the direction of the military power which then held possession of the State. The time, the prevailing temper of the then dominant party, as well as all the surroundings, were unpropitious to a wise performance of such important duty. The men hastily elevated to positions of power and great public responsibility act more from passion than from reason. They seek more to enlarge and perpetuate their power than they do to advance the public welfare. Bitterness, malice, noisy professions of loyalty, coupled with a spirit of relentless oppression and vindictiveness, are wantonly protruded before the public as the highest perfection of patriotism and statesmanship.

BROWNLOW.

Brownlow, the wayward, the impulsive, the vacillating, the intolerant, the vindictive, the reckless advocate in turn of every extreme, enfeebled by disease, overflowing with excitement, and totally indifferent to the demands or justice and the constitutional restrictions thrown around the executive—of all men the least fitted for the delicate and responsible trust confided to his hands—is unfortunately commissioned as Governor to put this new government into operation. The convention that initiated the movements for reorganization, and presented Governor Brownlow as a candidate for Governor, took, also, the necessary steps to insure his election. They prescribed a most rigid test for voters, carefully excluding from the polls every trace of disloyalty. None but friends of the Federal Government were allowed to vote, and at the election thus holden under these restrictions, in a State where the average votes for many years preceding averaged over 150,000, there were only 23,257 votes polled, of which 23,222 were cast for Governor Brownlow, and 35 for five other gentlemen. Here, it will be seen, was an ample beginning for a stable government. In the keeping and fostering care of an honest statesman equal to the occasion, and animated by a love of peace and a spirit of conciliation, and controlled by a desire to allay the fierce passions evoked by the war, it would soon have drawn around it the support and affections of every class of our citizens. Almost every one had been impoverished by the war, and the insurgent portion humiliated by defeat. Further resistance to the authority of the National Government had been entirely abandoned. No one entertained the slightest idea of renewing the conflict. All the rebels hoped for or expected was the protection of the law. In a word, a government administered with ordinary fairness, justice and humanity would have commanded almost universal support, and secured irresistible popular strength and imperishable fame to its authors and public servants. But this higher order of statesmanship never found favor with Governor Brownlow, from his inauguration to the present time. Indeed, he is incapable of understanding it. He is bitter, malignant, and unforgiving himself, and naturally supposes everybody else to be controlled by similar passions. Having never forgiven any one, he did not expect to be forgiven. Events—the surges of civil war—had thrown him higher than he ever dreamed of in the palmy days of peace.—His elevation excited an avarice and an ambition which he had never felt before; and being anxious to perpetuate his power, and feeling conscious of a want of merit, he knew not how to do it otherwise than by usurpation, proscription, and violence.—Hence the recklessness, oppression, and vacillation that have marked every step of his administration.

THE FRANCHISE LAWS AND THEIR OBJECTS.

The first measure deemed necessary by him and his party friends was the adoption of the law limiting the right of franchise to the loyal white population of the State. Under this act, which, in virtue of the power conferred by the schedule to the amended Constitution of the 22d of February, 1865, became a part of the Constitution of the State, none could vote except loyal men. By this act the whole political power of the State was vested in the loyal portion of the population. But it soon became apparent that Brownlow could not go safely before the loyal people with any hope of a re-election. His incompetency and reckless abuse of power had turned the tide of honest loyalty against him. In all of his appointments (and here it may be remarked, en passant, he claimed the right to exercise almost unlimited power) he sought alone for subserviency to his own interest. It competent men received favor at his hands, as was the case in some instances, the appointment was made by mistake.

RAPINE AND MURDER.

Instead of enforcing the execution of law, he openly encouraged its violation; publicly advised, from the stump, and through his Knoxville Whig, the robbing and murdering of those who had taken sides or sympathized with the South; and to insure the execution of his fiendish advice, he promised, both before and after his election, that if any of his followers should be convicted by the courts of the country for violence inflicted on those who had been identified with the rebellion, and sentenced to the penitentiary, he, as Governor of Tennessee, would meet them at the depot in Nashville with pardons; and this, permit me to say, is one of the few pledges which he has redeemed. And in the then existing state of society, at a time when we were just emerging from civil war, which had broken down all respect for law, and sown broadcast the seeds of demoralization; when passion and local hatreds and appetites for plunder, whetted by indulgence and encouraged by previous immunity from punishment, aggravated the evils with which we were then contending, it was not difficult to find a large number of men ready and willing to avail themselves of the license which the highest officer of the State had voluntarily thrust upon them. It was in this way he stimulated lawlessness in Eastern Tennessee to an extent but imperfectly understood by persons at a distance.

MONSTROUS OUTRAGES.

Mobs, thefts, robberies, and murders were of common, almost everyday occurrence. Ministers of the Gospel, distinguished for piety, and venerable with age, have been ruthlessly forced from the sacred desk and ridden upon rails. In one instance, two men of God were driven by violence from Decatur, in Meigs county, where they were engaged in conducting a protracted meeting, thirteen miles, and made to carry billets of wood through the public streets of Athens, in McMinn county, in the full blaze of day, and by as graceless a set of scamps as ever disturbed the peace of society. Courts have been intimidated by them, and two public executions by mobs in the town of Knoxville have occurred within the last eighteen months without a prosecution. At times and in some localities it has been very dangerous for a gentleman supposed to have twenty dollars to travel alone through the country; while to drive good men from the country, under the pretence of disloyalty, but really for the purpose of appropriating their property, was with many a favorite policy of enriching themselves. And all this was done by the Governor's peculiar friends, and done, too, in the name and under the cover of loyalty. It is true that this lawless population was made up mostly by the refuse, the worst portion of both sides; but this matters not, so long as they held themselves in readiness to do the Governor's behest. Their object was self; his object to crush out all opposition; to suppress honest and legitimate inquiry into the official conduct of himself and those associated with him; to concentrate within himself all the powers of the State, and to stifle the freedom of thought, and of the press. Such a policy, it is easy to be seen, would, in a country of ordinary intelligence, and where the existing power was dependent upon even a partial suffrage, soon overthrow any dynasty, however strong and well protected; and such was the manifest fate of Brownlow's accidental regime. With him, as with every one else, one act of usurpation and oppression demanded another.

THE GOVERNOR AND LEGISLATURE.

As weak and unrelenting as he is, he saw this much, and at once, in co-operation with a majority of creatures in the Legislature, who, too, like himself, were false in their promises and false in their constitutional obligations, set about robbing the people who had elected them of all political power, and turning it over to such as would unscrupulously and readily do whatever might be required of them. To this end, members legally elected and admitted to their seats were expelled under various pretexts, but in reality to make room for more supple instruments.

Others, duly and regularly elected, were denied their seats for the same reason, and when, by this forcible and illegal pruning, Brownlowism (and there is no more appropriate term to characterize the devilish spirit that is preying upon the vitals of our State) became strong enough, it put forth an amended or second franchise law, the distinguishing feature of which is that none could vote except such as held certificates from the Governor's appointees. This effective reach for power, like all usurpations, was put forth under a specious pretext. It was, as alleged by its authors, introduced and adopted for the purpose of keeping the government in the hands of the loyal people of the State.—But in this connection it must be remembered that the government of the State was already in the guardianship of loyal men, this object having been effectually secured by the franchise law which had been previously passed. No! Let us not delude ourselves by such a shallow and unworthy pretence. The second law was passed to exclude loyalty from the ballot-box. It has excluded loyalty. Yes, the purest loyalty and patriotism of the State have been repelled from all participation in the public affairs of the State. According to the provisions of this law the Governor is authorized to appoint a register of voters in each county. The law declares who shall and who shall not be entitled to be registered as voters. Among others, soldiers who had fought for the Government in the late struggle and been honorably discharged are declared to be entitled to vote. But then, the Governor's appointee is made the judge of this fact. His decision is conclusive; it can neither be appealed from nor reviewed. If he decides erroneously, whether from caprice, misconception of his duty, malice, or unworthy partizan considerations, there is no way of correcting the error. The applicant is deprived of one of the dearest rights incident to a republican form of government. Thus, you will see that the Governor holds the whole game in his own hands; and to make his power, if possible, more complete, notwithstanding this franchise act is a part of the fundamental law of the land, engrafted into and made a part of the constitution of the State, which invests every one holding a certificate with the constitutional right of voting, by a later act of the Legislature his Excellency, the Governor, is authorized, at his mere will and pleasure, to annul the registration in any county, appoint a new and more complacent register, and order or not order, as he may suppose most promotive of his faction, a new or revised registration.

THE GOVERNOR SUPREME.

These laws are intended to make the Governor supreme; they are intended to clothe him with all necessary power to force the re-election of himself, as well as a Legislature subservient to his views. It is with him to appoint registers of voters in the several counties. No one can vote except by the permission of his appointee, and if a registration is made, however fair, which is likely to cast a vote against him and his time-serving followers and expectants, a stroke of his omnipotent pen annuls the whole, and leaves the citizens of such counties as may come under his displeasure disfranchised as long as his malice may choose to continue them in that condition; or he may order another registration, in which he can confine the privilege of voting to those, and those only, who may be known to be favorable to his continuance in power.

This, fellow-citizens, is no mere fancy picture, or the suggestion of a mere possibility. He has already attempted, under the provisions of this unconstitutional law, by proclamation, to disfranchise the people of seven counties, and will, ere the August election, make a further attempt to exclude from the polls the people of any county in the State which he may suppose will cast a majority against him. Such is the spirit in which the law has been and is now being executed. The Governor's appointees, so far as they have come under my observation, in this end of the State, are generally the most violent and unscrupulous partisans. They are, as might be expected, but the reflex of Governor Brownlow himself; "like master, like servant;" and this is sufficient to convey to citizens and strangers a correct appreciation of the material used by the Governor, under the name of register, for the purpose of controlling the elections. It is impossible, in the very nature of things, that it should be otherwise. To entrust the execution to honest, liberal, and just men would be to defeat the object of its enactment. Honest men could not be used for such purposes, and the monstrous injustice which conceived it also requires convenient, facile instruments to put it into execution, so as to insure to its authors that mastery over the people which its enactment was intended to secure to them. And under its provisions, as now administered by these degrading creatures of gubernatorial confidence, a large number of the most consistent, worthy, and reliable friends of the Union, including a large number of the officers and soldiers of the Federal army, who fought with gallantry and have been discharged with honor, are robbed of this inherent and inestimable right of free citizens. But even with this most ample and placable machinery, centering in the Governor the whole power of the State, there is a manifest distrustfulness of success on the part of its traitorous authors. Why is this? "Conscious guilt," gentlemen, "makes cowards of us all." None, gentlemen, know better than they the extent of their base betrayal of the people. Yes, under the guise of friendship and loyalty they sought your confidence, begged your permission to serve you in positions of public trust, and when commissioned, they have basely used the power obtained through insincerity and fraud to rob you of your liberties, and to betray you into the power of the most contemptible and corrupt oligarchy that ever domineered over an enlightened people.—And it is a consciousness of this fact that makes them afraid to trust any portion of the people, hampered as they are by the iron-hand of power that seeks to control them through the complicated network which I have attempted to unveil and lay bare before you.

But what more could fraud and cowardice suggest? What resource was left by which these accidental occupants of place could drive an unwilling people into their support? A crisis had been reached, and something must be done, and the negro, the poor, harmless, and, if let alone, inoffensive negro, is by a third "franchise" act enfranchised. Thus, an element capable of voting from 40,000 to 50,000 votes in the State, unaccustomed to the exercise of political rights, uneducated, unfamiliar with the theory or wants and necessities of the Government, and as a general thing incapable of giving an enlightened vote, is crowded and thrust into the political arena, to be gambled for by demagogues, and inveigled into the party harness. But even here their confidence was not entirely free from misgivings. Doubts, having their origin in a sense of wrong, still disturbed their minds. If the stake—the negro vote—was left to its own volition, or to an impartial scramble of interested politicians, uninfluenced by the presence of force, it might, and probably would, be cast against them.

THE STANDING ARMY.

Hence another step became necessary, and thereupon these oppressors of the people, these men who sought places as servants, but who now claim to be masters of the country, by another act of the Legislature, made provision for the organization of a standing army of eight thousand men in a time of peace; and these men to be organized, equipped, fed, clothed, and paid by taxes gathered from you and I, are to be officered and commanded by our most excellent, just, and discreet Governor—to move at his command, and to execute his bloody, oppressive and illegal decrees. Yes, fellow-citizens, in a time of profound peace, when the machinery of civil government is in full operation, and in the hands of their own friends in all its departments, with a submissive and non resistant population readily aiding the execution of the laws and acquiescing in the decrees of your court, a formidable military power is being organized, in violation of the Constitution which all of these men have sworn to support, for no other purpose than to control the elections. The negro, like some of you, can vote, provided he gets a permit from the Governor through one of his registers, and provided further, that he votes in accordance with the Governor's wishes. And this, gentlemen, he will be required to do. Such is the unmistakable giving out of the Governor's organs and most trusted tools.—

* * * * * * *

With such prospects and with such a future, Tennessee, a land of untold resources—capable, under a good government and enlightened development, of becoming one of the leading States in wealth and influence of this great confederacy of great States—is to languish, and languishing live, until it shall become a barren waste, a bleak and howling wilderness. Our present government not only repels capital and enterprise seeking ingress into Tennesse, but is daily driving out a portion of that which is already here. As the sources of industry are dried up, everything else must lose that life and activity imparted to it by a prosperous agricultural and manufacturing interest.

Commerce will sicken and die; your railroads languish, (as is now manifest to every observing man;) your educational institutions will be deserted; military violence will usurp the province of law, until, if it were possible to continue just such a rule as now exists under Parson Brownlow, it would not be twenty years before we would relapse into absolute barbarism. Twelve months will not elapse before repudiation, or, what is the same thing, a failure to provide for the payment of the public liabilities, will be added to our other causes of complaint, fixing another foul blot upon our proud escutcheon, and dishonoring us in the eyes of enlightened men everywhere.

CONCLUSION.

Fellow citizens, the issue is not one as to whether the Congress or the President is right; of loyalty or disloyalty; it is not whether we will ally ourselves with the Radical or Conservative party of the nation; it is not one as to the best mode of reconstructing the rebel States; it is not one of freedom or of slavery; whether the negro shall or shall not vote; but it is a struggle for existence as a community—one of life or death, of civil liberty or military despotism; of honesty or corruption; of civilization or barbarism; whether the State shall be governed by its moral worth and intelligence, or by a despicable oligarchy, composed of a lean minority of the worst men in the State. In such a contest, no good man, properly impressed with the danger of the situation, can be an indifferent spectator. Rise, therefore, I beseech you, and shake the dew-drops from your garments, and in the spirit of true manhood, move forward to action and to victory. That victory will perch upon your banner is as certain as that the sun rises in the east and sets in the west. Your success is a necessity of society.

Brownlow and his faction will not be permitted to interfere and stop the onward progress of civilization. The Union men of the loyal States, with whom many of you co-operated in upholding the nationality of the country, will not demand your sacrifice, in a local point of view, to advance party interests. They will soon learn that Brownlow and his faction are an incubus, a dead weight upon them. Justice is all that our people want. Protection under and equality before the law is our due; and we will hold ourselves ready at all times and under all circumstances to strike hands with any man or party of men who may be willing to accord this to us. And our friends will ere long see that there can be no peace, no justice, no protection in Tennessee, or in any State, under a few men, such as are capable of turning vindictively upon their neighbors and section, and aiding in their oppression as the means of elevating themselves to office, through the influence of hostile interests abroad. Peace, gentlemen, the desideratum so much desired by the whole country, is inevitable death to "Brownlowism" in this State. Hence, he is determined to have peace if he can avoid it; hence the many misrepresentations sent abroad to poison and prejudice the minds of our Northern brethren against us; hence his many efforts to bring on a collision which can be so misrepresented and distorted as to re-excite the Northern mind, which is gradually settling down into a mood that will insure justice to us, as a means of giving him a new lease of his power. A New Orleans riot, or something like, would be regarded by Brownlow and his followers as a God-send to them.

BASE BALL.—The match game between the "Foresters," of Wake Forest, and the "Stonewall," of this City, which came off at the former place, on Saturday, resulted in a victory for the Foresters. The score stood: Foresters 60; Stonewall 56. It is proper to say, in behalf of the "Stonewalls," that their pitcher was ruled out.

THERE IS AN absolute dearth of items of local interest. We compile the following items of State news:

—— The annual address of Bishop Atkinson to the Episcopal Convention, now in session in Wilmington, was read on Thursday last. The Journal says that it alludes to the enfeebled condition of his health during the past year; his travels abroad and his relations, while there, to the Churches of Europe, and the manner of his reception; the present condition of the Diocese, and a general report of his labors since his return. A pleasing evidence of the growth of the Church is shown in a statement contained in the Bishop's address, that since he returned he has confirmed no less than three hundred and forty-one (341) persons in this Diocese. During his absence two were confirmed by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Green, of Mississippi. The subject of an appointment of an Assistant Bishop is referred to, and the ability of the Diocese to support one reviewed. Ritualism was then dwelt upon, and the practices in this respect which came under the Bishop's observation, while abroad, explained. This subject was ably handled, and clergymen cautioned against an indiscreet exercise of the authority vested in, and privileges accorded, them by the Church. The subject of freedmen was finally dwelt upon at considerable length. The necessity of imparting to this class religious instruction was urged, and altogether the Bishop rather favored granting orders to such of this class, possessed of the requisite intelligence and education, as should apply.

The various topics presented were referred to appropriate committees.

Rev. M. A. Curtis, D. D., John Wilkes and Dr. A. J. DeRosset were elected Trustees of the University of the South.

Rev. Drs. Mason, Hubbard and Cheshire, and Rev. Mr. Watson, were elected clerical deputies, and Dr. DeRosset, Hon. W. H. Battle and Messrs. R. H. Smith and Robt. Strange lay deputies, to the General Convention.

Up to our latest information, no definite action had been had relative to a division of the diocese or the election of an Assistant Bishop.

—— A colored man, calling himself Frank Moody, was arrested in Petersburg, on Friday, on suspicion of robbery. The Index says:

"Frank was very flush of money, both gold and greenbacks, and was endeavoring to exchange the former for the latter at par. This excited the suspicions of the officer, who was on the lookout for the parties who robbed Mr. Wm. Whitehead, at Greenville, N. C., of $3,700, on the 16th of April last. He was taken to jail and searched, and upon his person were found the following articles of property: $100 in gold, in five pieces, $3 90 in silver, $177 in greenbacks and national bank notes, 1 silver watch, 1 hair chain, 1 very fine six shooter and a knife.

On his person was also found an account of Dunn, Plummer & Co., against Mr. N. M. Long, of Halifax county, N. C., for goods sold him in March. At first Moody said he had come from Lunenburg, and then from Brunswick, and finally he admitted that he belonged in the vicinity of Weldon, and that the money was the property of Mr. Long. The Mayor has written Mr. Long to come on and identify the man and the money."

—— Our readers may remember the late shooting, in Fayetteville, of a negro who had been convicted of attempting rape upon the person of a young lady in that vicinity. Duncan G. McRae, Esq., of Fayetteville, the magistrate who committed him to jail, was brought down on the boat last night under military guard, (says the Wilmington Dispatch of the 17th..) having been arrested upon the testimony of a negro woman, who swore that she saw him point out the negro and say, "shoot the scoundrel," although Mr. McRae can prove by several witnesses, that he was sitting in the court room when he heard the report of the pistol, and had not left it since the trial. It is designed to convey Mr. McRae to Fort Macon, to be there tried by a military commission.

The Dispatch adds:

"A man nearly sixty years of age is thus separated from his family, and made to endure the rigors of a long confinement upon a charge having no foundation whatever. Capt. A. H. Toler is also in charge of the same guard, upon an allegation of complicity in the same affair. The post commandant at Fayetteville sends a letter declaring his conviction of the innocence of Mr. McRae, and the friends of the latter are endeavoring to lay the matter before Gen. Sickles in its proper light."

—— A public meeting is to be held in Henderson, on the 25th., to take into consideration the formation of a new County out of Granville and small portions of Warren and Franklin. The Index approves the movement.

—— On Monday evening last, about twilight, a gang of colored desperadoes visited the house of Mr. Richard Springle, about seven miles from Beaufort, Carteret County, and, calling him out, engaged in casual conversation. They soon, however, disclosed designs of robbery, demanded his money and forbade him to move. On his attempting to get into his house, they shot him down,—a ball taking effect in his neck.—The house was then entered and weapons drawn on Mrs. S., and an attempt made to kill her little daughter. The keys were demanded, which demand was refused. A trunk was then taken to the yard and opened with an axe. A considerable amount of money, with deeds and valuable papers, were abstracted, after which the brigands beat a hasty retreat. Mr. Springle's wound is of a dangerous character. Four colored men were implicated in this act, and one of them has been arrested.

—— Having published a communication from our City Postmaster, Mr. Miller, in reply to certain strictures of the Fayetteville Presbyterian, relative to the mail suspension between Raleigh and that place, we deem it our duty to give the following from the last issue of that paper. Of course, at the time, the Presbyterian had not seen Mr. Miller's card.

"In our issue of the 1st instant there was an article, which we never saw until it was in print, and then only by accident, while yet many miles away from our office, reflecting sharply upon those who were supposed to be responsible for the recent stoppage of the mail between Raleigh and Fayetteville. As we did not write the article, of course we have no apology to make for any of its statements. If they are not correct, an explanation ought to be allowed, and we publish a letter received a few days since from Dr. A. Jobe, Special Agent of the Department for North Carolina.

As Dr. Jobe says the Postmaster in Raleigh 'did everything he could to get service resumed,' we must infer that he sent to the Department the name of some person who was willing to complete the contract until 1st July next, and that the Department declined to employ him for the unexpired term, although it had the bond of the original contractor, with good and sufficient sureties, to cover any such default as has actually been incurred. If so, we must excuse the Postmaster and blame the Department. Or we must suppose that, after diligent inquiry in Raleigh, no person could be found so "impecunious," or straitened in his circumstances, as to accept the chance of making money which was so unexpectedly thrust upon him. If so, we must congratulate the people of Raleigh.

The Regulations of the Department require that Postmasters shall give notice of the abandonment of routes by contractors, "and furnish the name of a person who will enter into contract at the lowest price for the residue of the term." It does not matter whether their bids are proportionally the same as that of the original contractor.—They may be very largely in excess—and the Department has always the means of enforcing payment, even to the full penalty of the contractor's bond. We do not care to affix blame to any one in particular. The community have been made the victims of a gross outrage, and somebody is to blame for it. The arrangement now existing is not satisfactory to the people generally, except in the sense that it is the best they can get. There is a post office, for instance, but twenty-four miles distant. If no connection, out of at least three, is missed, we might send a letter to that office in three days! If any one is lost, it will take ten days for a letter to reach its address! This is a sample of our mail facilities, the worst perhaps that we could offer, but the best is bad enough."

The week's disbursements of the War Department are $445,000, of the Navy $311,000, of the Interior $486,000. The National Bank circulation is $298,956000.

Chief Justice Chase will preside at the Circuit Court of North Carolina, commencing June 6.

It is the object of the administration to cover the whole ground, and at every step new issues and perplexing questions have arisen. It is now thought that the work is complete.

MEXICAN NEWS.

WASHINGTON, May 19.

The mexican minister has the following official report of negotiations between the Imperialists and Liberals, dated April 21st.

Yesterday a German Princess, the wife of one of Maximilian's Aids, presented herself at Gen. Diaz's Headquarters. She proposed disbanding the Austrian and Belgian Corps on a guarantee of the lives of its members with permission to return home. She also solicited a guarantee for Maximilian's life. With reference to the first point Diaz replied that he was disposed to entertain such proposals, but he had no power to pardon Maximilian. The report continues that nothing of note is occurring during to-day. We have occasional change of shots. On the arrival of our mortars, should the city not have surrendered, we shall open our batteries on it and push hostilities vigorously.

Another report signed by Gen. Benaridit commanding before Vera Cruz, dated April 26, says that the Austrian and Belgian corps has disbanded and is now under the protection of the Prussian flag.

A MOST LAMENTABLE SUICIDE.—A LADY DROWNS HERSELF IN A WELL.—A most painful tragedy was enacted on Wednesday night, on Oregon Hill, by Mrs. Susan Green. Mrs. G. had some two weeks previously given birth to twins, and while confined to her bed by illness labored under the hallucination that her babes were in the well. Between twelve and one o'clock on Wednesday, while her husband, who was sitting by her bed and holding her hand, was asleep, she stole from her chamber, and, proceeding to the back-yard, plunged headlong into the well, a distance of sixty feet. She was almost immediately missed, and search made for her in the neighborhood and along the Basin bank, but her body was not discovered for some hours, when life was, of course, extinct—the probability being that she was almost instantly killed by the fall.

Judge McCarthy, acting coroner in the absence of Dr. Little, examined the body, but deemed no inquest necessary.

Dr. Fairfax, who was the family physician of Mr. James Green, the husband of the deceased, informs us that Mrs. Green was much deranged in mind during her illness, and, fearing that some accident might occur, he had warned the family against leaving her alone, advice which they scrupulously and faithfully observed.

Mrs. Green was highly respected by all who knew her, and leaves a husband and eight children to mourn her lamentable fate.—Richmond Examiner.

ORDER 13.—As we expected and predicted, the order of General Sickles requiring white jurors to take the test oath, and placing freedmen on juries, has had the effect of suspending the activities of the people in matters which have no connection with political affairs. We learn, for example, that a great many planters have refused to subscribe to railroads of the most popular and necessary character, for fear of an order stopping work upon them, or doing something else to make the enterprise insecure. This may seem absurd; but when people are under no absolute government, property and the spirit of improvement become timid, and begin to show signs of seeking a shelter at the first omen of a storm.—We cannot wonder at this, knowing, as we do, the state of m[illegible] to which the Southern people [illegible] thrown by the many changes that [illegible] they have had to pass recently, [illegible] uncertainty which such changes, [illegible] tion with the present Military government, are so well calculated to produce.—Galveston (Texas) News.

It is said in the accounts of the release of Mr. Davis, that when the name of Mr. Botts as one of his sureties was called, there were hisses. Such improper conduct deserves severe censure. For the public course of Mr. Botts, and for his political opinions, our opinions are well known. But the affixing of his name to the bond was an honorable act, for which he deserves applause.—Alexandria Gazette.

We happened to be in that situation to observe that the only distinct hiss came from one of Underwood's negro jurors.—Richmond Whig.

This is no humbug, as thousands of testimonials can assert. She will send when desired a certified certificate, or written guarantee, that the picture is what it purports to be. FIRST CLASS PROPERTY FOR RENT.

THAT LARGE, COMMODIOUS, AND WELL known Hotel,

"THE METROPOLITAN"

situated in the center of the business portion of Greensboro, N. C., is offered for rent or lease.

Its advantages are many; the outhouses and improvements are in fine condition, and of modern construction. Greensboro is a point at which a well conducted Hotel cannot fail to pay an active manager very handsomely; being at the terminus of the Richmond, Danville and Piedmont Rail Road, about the middle of the N. C. Central Rail Road, in the very centre of the Mining District of N. C.; at a point always remarkable for its flourishing schools and female colleges, and well known as a summer resort, on account of its healthy atmosphere.

The proprietors would prefer renting to some party, who have had experience in conducting a first-class hotel, and to such the terms would be most liberal; at any rate they desire an active and energetic man. The Metropolitan Property being the only Hotel in the central part of town, makes it most desirable, and a competent manager would enjoy a monopoly.

TO A CHILD WAKING FROM SLEEP.

"And where have you been my darling?
And why do your great blue eyes
Look wonderingly round on all things,
As if in a strange surprise?"

Ah! could she but speak, we should hear her say:
"I've wandered in dreamland so far away,
I'd nigh forgotten this mortal earth,
And the doting mother who gave me birth.
But your sweet caresses recall me now,
As I feel your lips on my childish brow,
As your tender hands through my ringlets creep.
Mother, I only have been asleep.

"And what have you seen, my darling,
What visions of sunny skies
Have flitted athwart your soul, that now
They shine in your waking eyes?"

"Oh! mother, I've been where the roses bloom,
And violets scatter their sweet perfume,
Where sunbeams linger from morn till night,
Till the fruit grows ripe in their mellow light,
Where gentlest of fragrant zephyrs blow,
Where the wild birds warbling is soft and low,
Where clearest streamlets murmuring leap.
Mother, I only have been asleep."

"And who have you met, my darling?
What beauteous forms were they
That left their semblance upon your brow,
In your journey so far away?"

"I wandered, dear mother, with cherubs there
Whose laughing eyes, and whose golden hair,
Were fairer far than I e'er can tell,
And their angel radiance on me fell
As we wandered together, hand in hand,
Through flowers and sunlight, a happy band.
Such bright companions I fain would keep.
But mother, I only have been asleep."

"May it ever be thus, my darling,
May these wee little hands and feet
Ne'er find companions less cheery,
Or wander 'mid flowers less sweet."

BOTHERING A WITNESS.—About twenty years ago, when Franklin Pierce and the present Senator Clark stood at the head of the Hillsborough bar, in New Hampshire, there was upon the docket a celebrated suit called the "Horse Case." This action was brought by Smith, & Jones, livery-stable keepers, against one White, to recover the value of a pair of horses alleged to have been killed by the defendant while conveying an insane man to the asylum at Concord. There was plenty of proof that the horses died soon after their arrival there; but the defendant took the ground that they died of disease and not from being overheated, and that a sufficient time had been allowed them to travel that distance with ease. Then it became necessary to show the jury the time of starting and the time of arrival. Many citizens were brought forward, among them a tall, bony, slab-sided, lanky, sleepy-looking fellow, who officiated as hostler at the stable. I give you the substance of the concluding portion of the examination:

"What time, sir, did I understand you to say it was when the horses were driven up to the stable?"

"Just as I was goin' to dinner."

"What time was it when you went to dinner the day before—by the clock?"

"Just twelve."

"To a minute, sir?"

"Yes, sir."

"What time was it when you went to dinner that day—by the clock?"

"Just twelve."

"To a minute?"

"Yes, sir."

"What time did you go to dinner the day before that—by the clock?"

"Just twelve."

"To a minute?"

"Yes sir."

"And what time did you go to dinner a week previous—by the clock?"

"At twelve."

"To a minute, sir?"

"Yes, sir."

"Now, sir, will you be good enough to tell the jury what time you went to dinner three months before the last date—by the clock?"

"At twelve."

"To a minute, sir?"

"Yes, sir."

"That is all, sir," replied the counsel, with a gleam of satisfaction on his face and a glance at the jury, as much as to say, "That man has settled his testimony, gentlemen." And so we all thought till, just as he was leaving the stand, he turned to his questioner with a curious, comical expression on his face, and drawled out, "That 'ere clock was out of kilter, and has stopped at twelve for the past six months." There was a general roar in the gallery where I sat.—Mr. Clark sat down, and I noticed that the judge had to use his handkerchief just then.

BEAUTIFUL DEATH SCENE.

When one of Martin Luther's children lay on her death-bed, the great man approached her and said to her:

"My dear little daughter, my beloved Margaret, you would willingly remain with your earthly parents; but if God calls you, you will go with your heavenly father."

"Yes, dear father; it is as God pleases."

"Dear little Girl!" he exclaimed, "Oh, how I love you! The spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak."

He then took the Bible, and read to her the passage, "Thy dead men shall live; together with my dead body shall they arise. Awake and sing, ye that dwell in the dust; for thy dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast out her dead."

He then said, "My daughter, enter thou into thy resting-place in peace."

She then turned her eye toward him, and said, with touching simplicity, "Yes, father."

CONDITION OF THE SOUTH.—A newspaper correspondent, writing from a Southern city, says:

In the old flush times a passenger on a river boat accosted a little negro boy with an inquiry would at that day:

"Who do you belong to?"

"Don't know, sir," answered the boy.

"Why don't you know?"

"When I come aboard I belongs to Massa Sam White, but last night he went me on two little par, an' de clerk ob de boat he win me. Den Kunnel Smiff he beat de clerk on a bluff, an' he had me last, so I dunno, massa, who I belongs to till de game close."

The South is in the same condition.

A sick man was telling his symptoms—which appeared to himself, of course, dreadful—to a medical friend, who at each item of the disorder, exclaimed, "Charming! delightful! pray go on!" and when he had finished, the doctor said, with the utmost pleasure, "Do you know, my dear sir, you have got a disease which has been for some time supposed to be extinct?"

Congressional Reconstruction Acts.

For the information of our readers we republish as follows the late reconstruction act of Congress, known as the Sherman-Shellabarger bill. We shall add to it the Howard Amendment, Test Oath and the Supplementary act, all of which will be kept standing until the necessary information they contain shall be generally and fully understood.

THE RECONSTRUCTION ACT.

AN ACT to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States.

[Passed over the President's Veto, March 24, 1867.]

WHEREAS, no legal State governments or adequate protection for life or property now exists in the rebel States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Texas, and Arkansas; and whereas it is necessary that peace and good order should be enforced in said States until loyal and Republican State Governments can be legally established: Therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That said rebel States shall be divided into military districts and made subject to the military authority of the United States, as hereinafter prescribed, and for that purpose Virginia shall constitute the first district; North Carolina and South Carolina the second district; Georgia, Alabama and Florida the third district; Mississippi and Arkansas the fourth district; and Louisiana and Texas the fifth district.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the President to assign to the command of each of said districts an officer of the army, not below the rank of Brigadier general, and to detail a sufficient military force to enable such officer to perform his duties and enforce his authority within the district to which he is assigned.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of each officer assigned as aforesaid to protect all persons in their rights of person and property, to suppress insurrection, disorder and violence, and to punish or cause to be punished all disturbers of the public peace and criminals, and to this end he may allow local civil tribunals to take jurisdiction of and to try offenders, or, when in his judgement it may be necessary for the trial of offenders, he shall have power to organize military commissions or tribunals for that purpose, and all interference, under color of State authority, with the exercise of military authority under this act shall be null and void.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That all persons put under military arrest by virtue of this act shall be tried without unnecessary delay, and no cruel or unusual punishment shall be inflicted; and no sentence of any military commission or tribunal hereby authorized, affecting the life or liberty of any person, shall be executed until it is approved by the officer in command of the district, and the laws and regulations for the government of the army shall not be affected by this act, except in so far as they conflict with its provisions. Provided, That no sentence of death under the provisions of this act, shall be carried into effect without the approval of the President.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That when the people of any one of said rebel States shall have formed a constitution of government in conformity with the Constitution of the United States in all respects, framed by a convention of delegates elected by the male citizens of said State, twenty one years old and upwards, of whatever race, color or previous condition, who have been resident in said State for one year previous to the day of such election, except such as may be disfranchised for participation in the rebellion, or for felony at common law; and when such constitution shall provide that the elective franchise shall be enjoyed by all such persons as have the qualifications herein stated for electors of delegates; and when such constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such Constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such constitution shall have been submitted to Congress for examination and approval, and Congress shall have approved the same; and when the said State, by a vote of its legislature, elected under said constitution, shall have adopted the amendment to the constitution of the United States, proposed by the Thirty-ninth Congress, and known as article fourteen; and when said article shall have become a part of the constitution of the United States, said State shall be declared entitled to representation in Congress, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom, on their taking the oath prescribed by law; and then and thereafter the preceding sections of this act shall be inoperative in said State. Provided, That no person excluded from the privilege of holding office by said amendment to the constitution of the United States shall be eligible to election as a member of the convention to frame a constitution for any of said rebel States, nor shall any such person vote for members of such convention.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That until the people of said rebel States shall be by law admitted to representation in the Congress of the United States, any civil government which may exist therein shall be deemed provisional only, and in all respects subject to the paramount authority of the United States at any time to abolish, modify, control or supersede the same; and in all elections to any office under such provisional governments all persons shall be entitled to vote, and none others, who are entitled to vote under the provisions of the fifth section of this act; and no person shall be eligible to any office under such provisional governments who would be disqualified from holding office under the provisions of the third article of said constitutional amendment.

SCHUYLER COLFAX.
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

LAFAYETTE S. FOSTER,

The following is the Constitutional Amendment referred to in the 4th section of the Sherman Bill:

Proposed Constitutional Amendment.

ARTICLE XIV.

Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Sec. 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, representatives in Congress, executive and judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State being twenty-one years of age and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

Sec. 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice-President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid and comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

Sec. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims, shall be held illegal and void.

Sec. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article.

The following is the oath of office referred to in the 5th section of the bill, and also in the 6th of the Supplementary Bill:

An Act to Prescribe an Oath of Office and for Other Purposes.

Be it enacted, That hereafter any person elected or appointed to any office of honor or profit under the government of the United States, either in the civil, military or naval department of the public service, except the President of the United States, shall before entering upon the duties of such office, and before being entitled to any of the salary or other emolument thereof, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I, A B, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I have never voluntarily borne arms against the U. S. since I have been a citizen thereof; that I have voluntarily given no aid, countenance, counsel or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility thereto; that I have never sought nor accepted, nor attempted to exercise the functions of any office whatever, under any authority, or pretended authority, in hostility to the United States; that I have not yielded a voluntary support to any pretended government, power or constitution within the United States, hostile or inimical thereto; and I do further swear (or affirm) that to the best of my knowlege and ability, I will support and defend the constitution of the United states against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter. So help me God," which oath, so taken and signed, shall be preserved among the files of the Court, House of Congress, or the department to which said officer may appertain. And any person who may falsely take said oath shall be guilty of perjury, and on conviction, in addition to the penalties now prescribed for that offence, shall be deprived of his office, and rendered incapable, forever after, of holding any office or place under the United States.

Approved July 2, 1862

SUPPLEMENT TO THE STEVENS-SHERMAN-SHELLABARGER BILL.

AN ACT supplemental to an act entitled an act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, passed March 2, 1867, and to facilitate restoration.

Be it enacted, &c., That before the first day of September, 1867, the commanding general in each district defined by the act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, approved March 2, 1867, shall cause a registration to be made of the male citizens of the United States, twenty-one years of age, and upwards, resident in each county or parish in the State or States included in his district, which registration will include only those persons who are qualified to vote for delegates by the act aforesaid, and who shall have taken and subscribed the following oath or affirmation:

"I, ——, do solemnly swear, or affirm, in the presence of Almighty God, that I am a citizen of the State of ——; that I have resided in said State for —— months next preceding this day, and now reside in the county of ——, or the parish of ——, in said State, as the case may be; that I am 21 years old; that I have not been disfranchised for participation in any rebellion or civil war against the United States, nor for felony committed against the laws of any State or of the United States; that I have never been a member of any State Legislature, or held any executive or judicial office in any State, and afterwards engaged in insurrection and rebellion against the United States, and given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof; that I have never taken an oath as a member of Congress of the United States, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, and afterwards engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof; that I will faithfully support the Constitution and obey the laws of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, encourage others so to do. So help me God."

which oath or affirmation may be administered by any registering officer.

Sec. 2. That after the completion of the registration provided for in any State at such time and place therein as the commanding general shall appoint and direct, of which at least thirty days public notice shall be given, an election shall be held of delegates to a convention for the purpose of establishing a constitution and civil government for such state loyal to the Union; said convention in each State, except Virginia, to consist of the same number of members as the most numerous branch of the State Legislature of such State in the year 1860, to be apportioned among the several districts, counties, or parishes of such State by the commanding general, giving to each representation in the ratio of voters registered as aforesaid as nearly as may be. The convention in Virginia shall consist of the same number of members as represented the territory now constituting Virginia in the most numerous branch of the Legislature of said State in the year 1860, to be apportioned as aforesaid.

Sec. 3. That at such election the registered voters of each State shall vote for or against a convention to form a constitution thereof under this act. Those voting in favor of such a convention shall have written or printed on the ballots by which they vote for delegates, as aforesaid, the words "for a convention;" and those voting against such a convention shall have written or printed on such ballots the words "against a convention." The persons appointed to superintend said election, and to make return of the votes given thereat, as herein provided, shall count and make return of the votes given for and against a convention; and the commanding general to whom the same shall have been returned, shall ascertain and declare the total vote in each State for and against a convention. If a majority of the votes given on that question shall be for a convention, then a convention shall be held, as hereinafter provided; but if a majority of said votes shall be against a convention, then no convention shall be held under this act: Provided, That such convention shall not be held unless a majority of all such registered voters shall have voted on the question of holding such convention.

Sec. 4. That the commanding general of each district shall appoint such loyal officers or persons as may be necessary, not exceeding three in each election district, in any State, to make and complete the registration, superintend the election, and make return to him of the votes, lists of voters and of the persons elected as delegates by a plurality of the votes cast at said election; and upon receiving said returns he shall open the same, ascertain the persons elected as delegates according to the returns of the officers who conducted said election, and make proclamation thereof; and if a majority of the votes given on that question shall be for a convention, the commanding general, within sixty days from the date of election, shall notify the delegates to assemble in convention at a time and place to be mentioned in the notification, and said convention, when organized, shall proceed to frame a Constitution and civil government according to the provisions of this act, and the act to which it is supplementary; and when the same shall have been so framed, said Constitution shall be submitted by the convention for ratification to the persons registered under the provisions of this act, at an election to be conducted by the officers, or persons appointed by the commanding general as hereinbefore provided, and to be held after the expiration of thirty days from the date of notice thereof to be given by said convention, and the returns thereof shall be made to the commanding general of the district.

Sec. 5 That if, according to said returns, the Constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the votes of the registered electors qualified as herein specified, cast at said election, at least one-half of all the registered voters voting upon the question of such ratification, the president of the convention shall transmit a copy of the same, duly certified, to the President of the United States, who shall forthwith transmit the same to Congress, if then in session, and if not in session, then immediately upon its next assembling; and if it shall moreover appear to Congress that the election was one at which all the registered and qualified electors in the State had an opportunity to vote freely and without restraint, fear or the influence of fraud, and if Congress shall be satisfied that such constitution meets the approval of a majority of the qualified electors in the State, and if the said constitution shall be declared by Congress to be in conformity with the provisions of the act to which this is supplementary, and the other provisions of said act shall have been complied with, and the said constitution shall be approved by Congress, the State shall be declared entitled to representation, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom as herein provided.

Sec. 6. That all elections in the States mentioned in the said "Act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States," shall, during the operation of said act, be by ballot; and all officers making the said registration of voters and conducting said elections shall, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, subscribe an oath faithfully to perform the duties of their said office, and the oath prescribed by the act approved July 2, 1862, entitled "An act to prescribe an oath of office." Provided, That if any person shall knowingly and falsely take and subscribe any oath in this act prescribed, such person so offending, and being thereof duly convicted, shall be subject to the pains, penalties and disabilities which by law are provided for the punishment of the crime of wilful and corrupt perjury.

Sec. 7. That all expenses incurred by the several commanding generals, or by virtue of any orders issued or appointments made by ——, or any order by virtue of this act, shall be paid out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Sec. 8. That the convention for each State shall prescribe the fees, salary, and compensation to be paid to all delegates and other officers and agents herein authorized or necessary to carry into effect the purposes of this act, not herein otherwise provided for, and shall provide for the levy and collection of such taxes on the property in such State as may be necessary to pay the same.

Sec. 9. That the word "article" in the sixth section of the act to which this is supplementary shall be construed to mean "section."
